

South Shore BEHAVIORAL HEALTH Collaborative

The South Shore Behavioral Health Collaborative is a group of behavioral health providers, community outreach services, public safety officials, school psychologists, corrections, court officials, and other experts. Our goal is to bring behavioral health resources together to provide the best possible services to individuals in our respective coverage areas.

Three Components of the Collaborative

Professional Development: Each month a different organization hosts a presentation about their services. This gives all participants an opportunity to have an open conversation about how their clients may benefit from those services.

Case Conference: Public Safety officials present challenging behavioral health cases from the community in a confidential format to the group in an effort to address concerns of safety, repeat calls, and wellbeing of the client.

Collaborative Effort: Bringing a wide panel of experts together in an effort to better serve individuals within our community to access resources, services and more.

Meetings are held monthly at the Department of Mental Health Building in Plymouth, MA. If you are interested in attending please or have any question please contact: Duxbury Police Sgt. Andrew Homestead Email: ahomestead@duxburypolice.org or Ph: (781) 934-5656 ext. 1133.
